The 2018 FIFA World Cup is the 21st FIFA World Cup, an international football tournament contested by the men's national team of the member associations of FIFA once every four years. It is currently ongoing in Russia starting from 14 June and will end with the final match on 15 July 2018.

This is the first World Cup to be held in Eastern Europe, and the eleventh time that it has been held in Europe. For the first time the tournament takes place on two continents – Europe and Asia. All but two of the stadium venues are in Eastern European Russia. At an estimated cost of over $14.2 billion, it is the most expensive World Cup ever. This is also the first World Cup to use video assistant referees

Qualifying competitions for the final tournament commenced in 2015 with 210 FIFA member associations from six confederations participating. The final tournament involves 32 national teams, which include 31 teams determined through qualifying competitions and the automatically qualified host team. Of the 32 teams, 20 made back-to-back appearances following the last tournament in 2014, while both Iceland and Panama made their first appearances at a FIFA World Cup. A total of 64 matches will be played in 12 venues located in 11 cities. The final will take place on 15 July at the Luzhniki Stadium in Moscow. This will be the fourth consecutive World Cup won by a European nation.

The FIFA World Cup is the most watched tournament in football (soccer). The Fédération Internationale de Football Association organizes the World Cup every four years. More people watch the World Cup finals than any other sporting event in the world—even more people than the Olympic Games. The most successful team has been Brazil.

The finals tournament is held every four years. In the other years there are only qualifiers (qualifying tournaments) in the six FIFA world regions. These games help to decide which teams will move on. Over 160 national teams play in the beginning games. The best teams from the beginning games win a place in the finals. The finals now include 32 teams. Before 1998, only 24 teams were in the finals; starting in 2026, there will be 48 teams in the finals. Many years before each World Cup, FIFA picks the host nation, the country where the finals will be held. Being the host nation means that their team has qualified for the finals tournament automatically and does not need to play any qualifying games. The 32 teams in the finals then play for four weeks, usually between June and July, to decide the champion (tournament winner):

Domestic animals are those that are tamed by us for our good. All animals were wilds in the beginning when life emerged on earth. When man shed his hunting life, he started keeping some animals like the cow, the horse, the sheep and the dog. The cows gave milk while the horse carried loads. The dog was the most useful animal for him as it guarded his cattle and also helped him in hunting. Since then, we have been domesticating animals that serve us in various ways. Some of them are milch cattle and provide us with milk which is certainly a valuable source of diet. Some domestic animals give us rides and carry our loads. Still others work on our farms and help us grow all the crops we need. There are few domestic animals being kept as pets for fun only. Thus, we see that domestic animals are very useful to us as they do us a lot of good while alive. They are also useful to us after their death. 2. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follows:

One common mistake people used to think is that it would be a very good thing if everybody had exactly the same amount of money, no matter whether they worked hard or lived idly. They imagine that if all the money in the country is equally divided, everyone will be rich. That is a great mistake because there simply is not enough money to make everybody rich. One has to work in order to earn his living. He should not sit idly and waits for some blessings.

Don't ever imagine that there is anything to be ashamed of, or anything undignified, to grumble about in having to work hard for your living. If when you start to work, you may go into a job that suits you, so that you can enjoy the work itself. But if your work is not exactly the kind that you would choose, you must try to remember that you are helping to produce the things that other people need; you are doing your bit and playing your part in the work of the world and you are a blessing to others.

- (a) What is the common mistake people used to make? (5 marks)
- (b) What will happen if all the money are equally divided to everyone? (5 marks)
